

Lucy Nguyen

Lucy, a perceptive and sharp individual, has a high aptitude for math and science and is a strong leader of her senior JROTC class at Hutch Tech High School. She has given countless hours of community service and has become a leader both in and out of school. To hear Lucy describe it, “Community service for students is considered to be a requirement, but I think of it as an opportunity”. For her those opportunities, included helping with food drives, being an active member and volunteer with the Color Guard, and helping with the Community Parade.

Lucy has a keen interest in biochemical science and has impressed her teachers with her advanced skills and passion. Ultimately she hopes to apply this by going into the field of nursing and we’re sure she’ll go far.

Because of her drive and determination to be a compassionate and strong leader, the NFJC is proud to present Lucy Nguyen with the Community Leader Youth Award.
