

2020 Community Leader Youth Award

LeeAnna Quiles

LeeAnna is a very conscientious senior at Middle Early College High School who regularly goes above and beyond, both academically and socially. Always there for her peers and ready to lend a hand, LeeAnna finds joy in giving back. To quote her “community service is not something that can be done once, but instead something that needs to continue from one generation to the next.” She embodies that mantra by volunteering at Highgate Heights, her former Middle school and Lifeline Christian Fellowship Church. In addition, she helps at her school as a new student liaison and an orientation and summer volunteer. Though she stays incredibly busy, she has still excelled in her academic studies and is maintaining a 98% average in several courses. Recently she was awarded student of the month. LeeAnna also was selected to participate in a consortium conference in NYC, where she brought back to her fellow students fresh ideas about how to use the power of youth voices in the community.

For her desire to truly spread sisterhood, brotherhood, peace, and kindness throughout our community, the NFJC is proud to present LeeAnna Quiles with the 2020 Community Leader Youth Award.
